What Is of More Value Than a Human Life?

Why do we as a nation pass laws against murder? Why are rules and regulations promulgated that cause "safety first" policies to be adopted in factories and workshops? Why do we always see the sign: "Danger-Stop-Look-Listen" at every railroad crossing? Why are scientists busy day and night in their laboratories working on theories that are later put into execution? Why does the physician devote much of his spare time to attending clinics and to furthering his knowledge of the human anatomy?

Because-Human life is of more importance than anything else in the world-and the fundamental laws of the land tend to preserve and perpetuate it.

The recent epidemic of influenza furnished a concrete illustration of this. The influenza germ baffled science-baffled the world. But human lives were being snuffed out by the malady, and scientists worked feverishly to find a cure which would prove effective.

Today there is a disease even more deadly than influenza—a disease that is perhaps less violent, but which clings tenaciously to its victim until his body at last ceases to resist-and the germs are victorious. It is a disease more pernicious than influenza because it is not an epidemic-its germs work all the time and are always lurking in wait for their opportunity to

That disease is tuberculosis, and it has taken an appalling toll of human lives in the past five decades—the lives of enough persons to form a formidable fighting army. In Oklahoma alone it takes 3,000 lives every year.

Yet tuberculosis is the most easily preventable disease known; it is the most easily cured chronic disease known, if caught in its incipient stages and not let run until the rayages on the body have become so great that destroyed tissues cannot be rebuilt. This is our work. We are devoting all our energies toward preventing the malady, and when we find a case of the disease already developed, to curing it before its hold becomes deadly.

If we can obtain the case in its incipient stage, we can, with the co-operation of the patient, effect a cure. If the case is too far advanced, we can do our best to save the life-a human life. Right now we are treating eighty-eight cases in Tulsa, and greatly upon our efforts depend the lives of that part of this number of men and women and boys and girls whose cases are not hopeless.

But it requires money to carry on this work-money with which to buy milk and eggs, which are nature's greatest aids when combined with fresh air.

WHAT $1 WILL DO:

Buy five quarts of milk. Buy 21 dozen eggs at 40 cents Buy 75 sputum cups. Help save one human life.

WHAT $10 WILL DO:

Buy 50 quarts of milk. Buy 25 dozen eggs. Buy three cots for open-air usc. Help buy a tent. Buy 750 sputum cups. Help save one human life.

WHAT $100 WILL DO:

Buy 500 quarts of milk. Buy 250 dozen eggs at 40 cents. Buy five tents and help equip them with decent furniture. Buy thirteen cots for open-air use.

Buy 7,500 sputum cups. Build four or five sleeping porches where tuberculosis patients will be given a fighting chance to recover.

Perhaps save one human life.

WHAT $1,000 WILL DO: Buy 5,000 quarts of milk. Buy 2,500 dozen eggs at 40 cents. Buy 50 tents and help equip them with clean and usable furniture.

Build 40 sleeping porches where tuberculosis patients may enjoy sunlight and fresh air. Buy more than 100 cots to be used

Milk and eggs and tents and sleeping porches and cots cost money. Funds derived from the national association must be spent for educational work alone, and there are so many cities to be supplied that Tulsa must be given only its proportionate quota of the educational fund.

That's why you will be asked this week to give your dollaror as much more as you wish-to the Tulsa Tuberculosis association.
